Huge floral extravaganza may move to Fairgrounds

The California Spring Garden Show, a fixture in the bay area for 43 years, may be moving to facilities at the Fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

Lee Hall, Fair Association Manager, verified Monday that an invitation had been extended to the First District Agricultural Association to move the show out here next year.

The show has moved to various Oakland locations over the years, due in part to rental fees and waning attendance.It was located for many years in the Oakland Auditorium near Lake Merritt, but has since been moved about from the Coliseum Arena on Hegenberger Road, Lakeside Gardens and Dunsmuir House. The 43rd annual show, with an El Dorado Days theme, will be held at the latter location from April 26 to May 4 this year.

A Fair Association Board of Directors committee, composed of President Tom Kitayama, George Jacopetti and John Pleich, Hall and maintenance supervisor Lou Alexander, met with the First District Agricultural Association board last week to extend the invitation.

Hall said the reaction they got was a "surprisingly good one."

The association gets a $65,000 allocation from the state and additional support from the City of Oakland.

Support from the latter municipality could prove to be the only hurdle to moving the flower and garden spectacular to Pleasanton.

The 9-day show, which drew 24,598 paid and credentialed persons to Dunsmuir House last year, is annually preceded by a black tie preview dinner. Hall said the dinner could be handled, if the event is moved, in the Fairgrounds cafeteria.

Hall said the association was made aware of the facilities available at the Fairgrounds. In addition to the floriculture building, the agriculture and main exhibition buildings would be available for flower and garden exhibits. Areas adjacent to the buildings would also be available.

Another plus in the Fairgrounds' favor is the large amount of convenient parking available.

One other possible drawback, as far as Fair Directors are concerned, is what affect any such show would have on the yearly County Fair, which runs the first two weeks in July.

Receiving the invitation on behalf of the association was board president Jay Dilles Black. He immediately appointed a committee to review the proffer and hold future meetings with the Fair committee.

In earlier years, the California Spring Garden Show, which draws entries from throughout the bay area, has been one of the major events in the life of the area, frequently drawing in excess of 25,000 persons.

Sunol school tax vote set

SUNOL — The Sunol Glen School District Board of Trustees have moved to put a tax rate increase measure on the May 27 ballot.

At their regular monthly board meeting, trustees acted on a resolution that will ask voters to approve a 43-cent increase in base revenue. Present Sunol Glen tax rate is $2.07.

Sunol superintendent - principal George Bury projected expense of operation for 1975-76 is $300,083. The Sunol board's finance committee is assuming that assessed valuation will increase 7½ per cent each year and the Average Daily Attendance (ADA) will remain at 150.

Ground work for the increase in base revenue measure was started last October when it became apparent that dwindling attendance, rising costs of salaries and supplies and the effects of SB 90 would put the one - school school district in a financial bind.

Herman Koopman, chairman of the finance committee, presented the committee's recommendation to request an election to increase the base revenue. Committee member Dave Hoxie then moved to request that the county counsel prepare the papers necessary for a base revenue increase election to be held May May 27, and that the amount of the increase be the same as that recommended by the panel. Jim Ackerman seconded the motion. The board agreed to establish a compaign committee and the item was acted upon at last night's meeting.

Agency which runs lab replaced by ERDA!

Sunday the Atomic Energy Commission officially went out of business.

The AEC, which runs the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory through the University of California, was replaced by the Energy Research and Development Agency(ERDA) when President Gerald Ford signed an executive order authorizing the move.

ERDA will assume almost all of the AEC's duties, except for regulation of the nuclear industry. That function will be picked up by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission(NRC) which will have an office in Walnut Creek.

The long expected move is not expected to change things at the Lab in the near future.

Status of Women panel before Supervisors today

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND—The Alameda County Board of Supervisors will decide at 9:30 this morning whether a Commission on the Status of Women should be established.

In early December, the supervisors directed the county Human Relations Commission to hold hearings on the matter and bring back a recommendation for action.

Over the past six weeks, the HRC has held two lengthy hearings on whether a separate commission should be formed to handle the particular problems faced by women or whether those problems could be handled as effectively by forming a subcommittee within the Human Relations Commission itself.

At a meeting Jan. 8, the HRC recommended a separate commission be established but slashed the proposed $80,000 for that commission in half.

The commission, if approved by the supervisors as proposed, would be composed of 15 members, 10 appointed by the supervisors themselves, and one each from the Human Relations Commission, Welfare Commission, Juvenile Delinquency Commission, Health Care Services Committee and Alameda County Mayors' Conference.

The supervisors will also hold a hearing on the request of Tele-Vue Systems for a refund of taxes and will hold a work session on whether night meetings should be held.

The board will consider a request from the Pleasanton Health Care Services Agency for $13,454 in revenue sharing funds.

At 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, the board will hold a work session on the recommended construction program for pre-trial detention facilities in Oakland. Four organizations, including the American Civil Liberties Union and the American Friends Service Committee, have called a press conference for 1:30 p.m. in the corridor outside the supervisors' chambers to protest the recommendations of the county administrator's office regarding that facility.

The supervisors meet on the fifth floor of the county administration building at 1221 Oak St.

Ryan named

Robert Ryan, a Pleasanton resident, has been named a director of the Oakland Traffic Club. The new officers and directors were seated at a dinner meeting Jan. 11.

Ryan is a traffic manager for the Simmons Company in San Leandro. Victor Ingram of Kranso Manufacturing was named president.

Castlewood preserve bid

A bid by Castlewood Country Club to place its valley golf course in an agricultural preserve will be heard by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors at a public hearing, Feb. 28 at 10 a.m. in the supervisors' chambers in Oakland.

The parcel included in that preserve totals 127 acres, and is all south of the City of Pleasanton and west of Foothill Road.

Hayward principal talks on issues

A state land plan with the force of legislation could save California's open spaces, says 15th Assembly District candidate Tom Kendall.

The Hayward Democrat who has re - surfaced after 19 years of political inactivity says such an act could give county boards of supervisors the "law to keep certain areas green." "We need a bill to really enforce this," he says.

The soft - spoken Kendall says a land use bill could deal with the proposed New Town near Livermore and allow for more planning for future land use.

Currently the principal at Brenkwitz Elementary School" in Hayward, Kendall, 54, says environmental issues have priority on his list of concerns. "We can't have perfect air and perfect environment . . People need jobs .. We can't be so strict we can't live and make a living."

What if there comes a choice between good air and jobs? "We'll have to bite the bullet and see if we want to pay the price."

Kendall has high hopes for BART as well as the air.

"I think BART should come out this way," he says. And state and federal financing should be made available to finance the transit system as a "model" for other communities.

The Oakland - born Kendall agrees there are different problems facing the valley side and Hayward side of the assembly district. An assemblyman "had better be conversant with both sides," he said. "It's not possible to satisfy everybody. The guy or gal who's elected faces tough problems. There's no easy answers."

Kendall also calls on the federal government to "prop up" sagging schools that suffer from declining enrollment. "The local taxpayer can't afford to do more for the school."

TOM KENDALL
Principal seeks office

The unsuccessful Democratic Congressional candidate in 1956 in Contra Costa County says welfare recipients should be made to work "if they are able to work. There are abuses (of welfare laws) . . But more people want to work . . There's not enough money in welfare to be an incentive to stay home."

Kendall said he would support publically - financed jobs.

He says he would also support state aid to blighted areas. "They're trying in East Oakland (to restore neighborhoods.) People would want to stay in the cities where they're closer to their jobs. It should be liveable and cozy so people wouldn't flock to Livermore."

Kendall, a World War II veteran, says he believes in affirmative action programs which seek to place minorities in jobs. "But if people can't do it (the job) they should go. Better training would help people hold jobs, he says.

The elementary school principal also says schools should be held more accountable for the progress of students. When parents see scores they think the schools are falling down. "Schools should let parents know early in a pupil's history if a child is not succeeding. "The motto should be 'Don't let the kid slide.' "

Kendall says he's opposed to pushing a child on in school even if he's failed to achieve the standards of the grade.

SB 90, which sought to limit taxing ability of local agencies, is not a piece of satisfactory legislation, he says. "There's been some drawbacks," he says, adding there should be emergency funding available when school districts run into financial difficulty.

Kendall says people on modest incomes and those retired should be entitled to state tax relief. "When people are in their 60s and retired it's hard to make ends meet. They're deserving and they've been paying taxes . . They deserve the biggest possible tax break.

Kendall, who so far spent some $400 in a race where some have spent $10,000 in campaign activities, taught in the Oakland school District from 1951 and 1955. Joining the Mt. Eden School District in 1955, Kendall served as vice principal and principal of a number of Hayward schools.

The receipient of the honorary life membership of Longwood PTA for outstanding community service, Kendall is married and the father of two daughters.

Study says hiring new chief should be BART's first move

The Bay Area Rapid Transit District needs extensive internal cleaning up and the first step is the hiring of a new general manager to fill a vacancy that has existed since last June 30.

That's the message given top priority in an audit of the BART district that comes before the state Senate Public Utilities, Transit and Energy Committee in Sacramento today.

Headed by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-Santa Clara, the standing committee — under its previous name of Public Utilities and Corporations Committee — ordered the BART management audit last summer as a prerequisite to future state financial support and possible legislative controls over the transit district.

The audit, conducted by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., of San Francisco, criticizes a multitude of BART's inner workings and procedures.

Situations needing correcting, the audit indicates, range from a lack of skill and competency at some management levels, to BART's failure to respond to recommendations by state legislative bodies and state-hired consultants.

Given top priority among the auditors' recommendations is the need for BART directors to select a new permanent general manager to replace former BART chief B.R. Stokes, who resigned under fire last June.

Stokes' office has been occupied since June 30 by Lawrence Dahms, acting general manager.

In addition, the audit says, BART requires flexible budgeting to overcome its own past inability to accurately estimate patronage, expenditures and financial requirements.

The district needs better control over its car maintenance program since it currently devotes too much time to repairing passenger cars — and neglects preventive maintenance. The audit also declares that supervisorial personnel know less about the repair and maintenance work requirements than hourly repairmen who work as subordinates.

BART's promises and plans to institute full service should be forgotten until the district can get better control over the maintenance of rolling stock, which has a 50 per cent breakdown rate. In addition, the fleet of cars in service should be reduced so there is less repair work required daily which will afford more time for preventive maintenance, according to the audit.

A new post office

Sunol postmistress Lucille O'Loughlin examines plans for the new post office, which is being constructed behind the old one at 11925 Main St. Although no carriers work out of Sunol, post office boxes are kept there and the mail for the Sunol rural route is sorted there. New equipment for sorting mail is coming and the old office is too small for it. The new edifice is expected to be ready for occupancy in March.

Sweatshirt sale to aid playground

PLEASANTON — The Vintage Hills School PTA, in an effort to raise funds to landscape and add to the playground at the school, is selling adult and children-size sweatshirts.

The sweatshirts come in dark green or gold with orange "Vintage Hills" lettering. Cost is $4 for children and $4.75 for adults.

A slide has already been installed. A meeting on January 22 at the school will focus on developing a base map for the playground and planning for landscaping.

Persons wishing to purchase a sweatshirt and help in developing a community playground at Vintage Hills may call PTA sale committee chairman Janet Gabrielson, 846-2669, or the school, 462-4100

Cross-up in communications may have caused fatal BART accident

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — A board of inquiry will determine whether a maintenance truck struck by a BART train Sunday night showed up on the rapid transit district's central control board.

One man was killed and another was injured when the speeding Bay Area Rapid Transit train slammed into the maintenance truck.

BART spokesman David Kelsey said BART has "no ready answer" whether maintenance vehicles using BART tracks normally show up on the big lighted panel which shows the progress of all trains on all rapid transit tracks.

The mysterious accident killed Arthur L. Briggs of Richmond and injured Jimmy Coppedge, 23, of Antioch. Both were on the highway - rail maintenance truck. Another maintenance worker, Billy Moore, 24, of Pittsburg jumped off the truck before the train hit and wasn't injured.

BART officials say the "Hi - railer" maintenance truck was supposed to be on the northbound subway tracks cleaning debris from drains.

In order to do that, it was sent south for BART's Oakland shop to a crossover switch half a mile south of the shop near tt Fruitvale station.

The nine - car northbound train, using what are normally southbound tracks, was being tested. It was ordered to stop at Fruitvale station until the truck radioed it was safely in its subway "work area."

But when the train, booming down the tracks at 70 to 80 miles per hour, hit the truck, it was on the southbound track 100 feet south of the crossover switch, BART officials said.

The truck crew, officials added, had radioed at 10:09 p.m. that it was in the subway work area. The crash occurred at 10:22 p.m.

Rapid transit spokesmen said train operator Robert K. Harrigan of Oakland hit the train's emergency stop button and then ran to the rear of the first car.

Free swimming at VCSD pools to be considered

DUBLIN — A proposal to offer free swimming at Valley Community Services District's three swimming pools will be considered tonight as the board meets at 7:30 p.m. in VCSD general offices.

The proposal comes as directors evaluate the economics of pool operation.

In a report to the board, Newell Cummings, VCSD Finance writes the district stands to lose some $10,000 in 1975 with a program of free swimming.

On the other hand, VCSD could increase utilization of pools, eliminate one cashier per pool at $1000 each, eliminate the need for cash registers, collection, depositing and accounting for cash and eliminate the need for printing, selling and controlling swim tickets.

Cummings said the plan could also create "excessive" use of the pools by out of district residents.

The projected loss could be offset by closing the Dublin Elementary Pool, the report says. Last summer, the pool built by Volk-McLain, developers of the surrounding subdivision, drew some $1000 in revenue. Expenses totaled $10,000 for life guards and operating costs.

The pool, owned by Murray School District and leased by VCSD for ten years, is in need of many repairs and new equipment, Cummings said.

"In spite of extensive repairs in recent years, the pool is not operating in satisfactory condition ... the report says.

The report is expected to draw renewed interest from the Dublin Lions Club, which earlier asked VCSD to consider sale of the pool for blind athletics.

Neil Miller of Dublin proposed in September the pool be turned over to the service club for use as a center for handicapped and senior citizen swimming.

Miller, who is currently organizing international sightless athletics activities, proposed the pool be operated by the Lions Club for physically handicapped theraputic swim programs.

The change would allow the local handicapped a nearby facility as members of locally - based group work to raise $80,000 for construction of specially - equipped pool in Contra Costa County.

The Pool could be equipped with special hoists and whirlpools to meet the specialized needs of the handicapped, Miller said.

Once the only local swim facility, the pool has been forgotten in favor of the lavish new Valley Community Swim Center. The olympic pool now under construction at California High School is expected to push the old pool further into the background.

In other business, VCSD directors are slated to review a plan for San Ramon parks development.

In a public session Tuesday, San Ramon residents told the district's citizens advisory committee on parks they preferred a centralized park at the Seeno property at the east end of Davona Drive.

The park, to be called Boone Acres, will provide needed relief from the extensive development in the area, they said.

Other alternatives included a joint effort with the San Ramon Valley Unified School District to develop an intermediate school and small park on the property.

That plan, however, involved other complications. And residents said they wanted the central park purchased with funds raised in the 1970 parks bond issue.

The study will include a look at regional and valley development, selected routes for BART extension to the valley, accompanying environmental impact statements, a comparison of rail extension and continued bus feeder service an and implementation of the study.

The board has met for more than two years in efforts to provide BART services to the valley.

At Wednesday's meeting, four new BART directors will be seated on the board. Besides the BART directors, the board is comprised of three representatives from Metropolitan Transportation Commission and the city managers of Livermore and Pleasanton.

The meeting begins at 2 p.m.

Regional Parks helicopter instrumental in two rescues

Wfthin two hours Sunday, the East Bay Regional Park District helicopter crew participated in two separate rescue efforts at Sunol Wilderness Park, in each incident bringing the victim to a hospital in minutes.

The crew, Randy Parent and Steve Valerga, both of Pleasanton, received the first emergency call at 1:17 p.m. Sunday after a 20-year-old Oakland youth had fallen approximately 200 feet down Flag Hill in the park.

Parent, who was piloting the craft, left Valerga off on top of the hill. Valerga was met by Bill Brewster of the park's grounds' crew and the two carried a stretcher down to where the youth lay. They then carried him down to the bottom of the hill, loaded him in the helicopter and transported him to a Hayward hospital.

While at the hospital, Parent and Valerga received a second emergency call, reporting a 22-year-old Union City youth had fallen 100 feet down a sheer cliff near Little Yosemite.

The two returned to the park, realized they could not get into the canyon where the victim lay so set the helicopter down downstream from the spot. They were met by members of the ground crew and carried the second youth to the helicopter. He was also taken to a Hayward hospital.

Both youths were treated and released.

An EBRPD spokesman said, according to Valerga, had it not been for the helicopter, each rescue would have taken at least two hours.

Annoying man sought

PLEASANTON — Police today were continuing their search for a man driving a dark blue Chevrolet Nova in connection with charges of battery and annoying children.

The man, who is described as having grey hair, a pot belly, being about 6-foot-one and around 50 years old, allegedly approached two teenage girls in Wayside Park at First and Neal Street yesterday around noon and knocked them down when they attempted to walk away.

According to the girls, the man pulled up in his car and asked them if they wanted to go to a good place. The girls got up to walk away, they told police, when he got out of his car, took ahold of them and knocked them to the ground. He then left, they said.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the American public.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries - the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned In 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 had been spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates.

These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collectors' items and have been appraised by the American Appraisers Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public

Now, after 38 years these full color 11"x14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. G46, 18584 Ventura Bl., Tarzana, Ca. 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Mastercharge and BankAmericard OK (give card number.)

How To Live and Like It

Workers, Auto Injured Deserve Best in Care

Dr. W.H. Hoffert

Accidental injuries are a fact of life. Unfortunately, too many lives. Slips, falls, bumps, bangs . . . in the home, on the highways, at the job . . . take their toll daily.

"From my vantage point, says Dr. W.H. Hoffert, D.C., of Livermore, "It was obvious that some special effort must be made to accommodate the care and treatment of accidental injuries. The need for this care is created in the split-second instant of an accident. And the care itself poses different problems by its very nature."

According to Dr. Hoffert, that is why the Hoffert Chiropractic Offices has been established and staffed to provide the newest facilities and eminently qualified staff for the treatment of acute injuries sustained in accidents.

"The working man deserves the best in care," says Dr. Hoffert. "He needs to be able to look for competent, specialized care to get him back on the job."

"The victim of an automobile accident should seek immediate specialized care," stated Dr. Hoffert. "Serious and costly injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed. A thorough examination following an accident is necessary to insure protection and prevention of long-term post-accident suffering from seemingly, minor unnoticed injuries."

Dr. Hoffert noted that whiplash injuries from auto accidents occupy much of the staff's time. "This is probably becoming the nation's number one problem. A whiplash left untreated can open a 'Pandora's Box' of troubles, so we've prepared ourselves to treat the problem with the maximum of skill."

Dr. Hoffert maintains chiropractic offices at 2602 First Street, Livermore, CA. Telephone 447-8800 or 455-6771.

Blackhawk dates back

Blackhawk Ranch, located on the southern boundary of Mt. Diablo State park, was first settled in the 1850s by Americans who initially came to California to form or search for gold during the 1849 gold rush.

Many, missing out on success in the gold fields, traveled farther west o the low valleys. Some settled in Sycamore Valley in the shadow of Diablo (Devil Mountain.)

The first known resident of the small valley was Leonard Eddy, who moved there in 1851. He build a cabin and proceeded to farm the land. His original cabin stood about where the Blackhawk Development Company's office is now located.

Later, more settlers joined Eddy in Sycamore Valley and soon a number of 160-acre homestads dotted the countryside.

Most of the settlers secured Land under the federal Homestead Act. Most parcels were 160 acres in size but, often, several family members would homestead adjacent parcels, thereby forming larger spreads.

At first disputes arose over ownership, as many settlers had no legal claim to the land.

There was also the problem of determining the boundaries of a Mexican land grant. The San Ramon Grant covered territory extending south from Mt. Diablo, supposedly as far as a person could ride one day on horseback, but its actual limits remained undetermined until the late 1860s when it was finally determined the grant did not apply south of the Sycamore Valley.

By the late 1860s, however, most of the land in Sycamore Valley was claimed by farmers, miners or Civil War veterans. The ex-soldiers were given preferential treatment as veterans. But many never saw their land. They simply purchased it for investment purposes.

Land in Sycamore Valley during the early and mid 1860s sold for about $1.25 per acre. In the late 1860s it jumped in price to $10 an acre.

Through the years many farmers maintained ownership of original parcels while others sold out. Finally, in the early 1900s, only a few parcels were owned by the decendants of original homesteaders.

In 1917 the first merger of separate parcels of any size took place under the director of Ansel M. Easton and his son-in-law, William A. Ward. Easton was a Bay Area entrepreneur who purchased, with Ward, 1,250 acres of the hilly terrain for use as breeding ground for some of the world's finest herds of shorthorn cattle.

The large parcel soon had a 15-room main house in which both the Easton and Ward families resided. The grounds outside the home were extensively and beautifully landscaped with numerous gardens.

The ranch was shortly bustling. Pure-bred cattle were imported along with prize Shire horses and a huge horse barn was constructed for the purpose of conducting stock shows. Sixteen acres were set aside and walnut trees planted. Wildlife roamed freely over the land.

From 1920 to 1930 the Blackhawk Ranch became worldfamous as one of the very finest breeding establishments for shorthorn cattle and Shire horses. One year the Blackhawk won more honors for breeding animals than any other single ranch in history.

Cattlemen from throughout the world visited the Blackhawk during these years.

In 1934, however, Easton and Ward sold the ranch to Raymond C. Force, retired president of the Caterpillar Tractor Co., of San Leandro. Force owned the Rising Sun Ranch in Livingston where he raised prize Arabian horses. He moved his Arabian operatons to the Blackhawk but later dropped breeding of Arabians and concentrated on Hereford cattle.

While under Force's ownership, the Blackhawk grew in size from 1,250 acres to 6,000 acres as Force acquired numerous adjoining parcels. From 1934 to 1941, the Force family used the Blackhawk only as a summer home, residing permanently in Piedmont. The family finally settled permanently on the Blackhawk in 1941.

In 1940, Force hired Lorens Foard as the ranch's general manager. Foard replaced Al Houschild, who had died. Numerous improvements were made under Foard, including the addition of swimming pools, cabanas, new roads, new stock barns and stock ponds.

Force died in 1951 and the ranch was sold in 1956. The property was purchased jointly by Castle and Cooke Ltd. and Helemano Company Ltd. of Honolulu. Foard remained general manager. The ranch continued to be used as a cattle operation and a 140-acre walnut orchard was added. Eventually the ranch was purchased by the Blackhawk Development Company, which now plans a 4,000-lot planned unit development on the property.

Robert Carrau, president of the company, is joined in the enterprise by Wayne Hawkins and Bill Morse. Carrau says the company will give about 2,000 acres of the Blackhawk Ranch property to Mt. Diablo State Park. The ranch itself will not return to cattle grazing or farming.

SERENE VALLEY IS NOW EARMARKED FOR MAJOR DEVELOPMENT

SR center advocates warn

School proposal could ruin center

By JOHN KEARNS

The San Ramon Valley Community Center, in existence for about four years, could be demolished in Danville soon, say center officials.

Proposals being considered by the Board of Trustees of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District, says Center Director Arny Pickholtz, could ruin the center and force it to close.

The board currently is considering plans for the improvement of San Ramon High School, where the center is located, and most plans show the center removed from its present site.

The relocation of the center to the southwest corner of the high school site, says Pickholtz, could remove it from the public's view and cause interest in the facility to end.

Without participation, the center's effectiveness would be ended and it would be forced to close.

School Superintendent Allan J. Petersdorf says he has to explore the future use of San Ramon High School and is considering plans that will affect the school for 20 years.

The plan for the school's remodeling was prepared by the architectural firm of Confer, Crossen and Nance of Concord.

A county road that runs through the high school campus, Love Lane, separates the community center and several metal shop classrooms from the rest of San Ramon High School.

Under the architects' plans, the road is shown rerouted around the edge of the campus, and a parking lot is shown where the community center now exists.

Under school district plans, says Petersdorf, a building now in use as a transportation facility will be moved and remodeled for use by the community center.

Dave Stegman, community services director for the school district who works in the center, says that center programs have cut juvenile problems in Danville drastically.

Stegman says that youths will not be allowed to use any other facility in Danville presently.

Petersdorf says the building should be demolished while the rest of the high school site is remodeled since the building can't be used by the school and since doing all the work at the same time would save the district money.

He also says the center probably won't be destroyed for "a minimum of three years" because improvement work at the high school site won't start until then.

The board meeting, open to the public's comments, will meet at the district's Education Center, Old Orchard Road, in Danville at 7:30 p.m.

Three lead campaign spending for 15th Assembly District race

Democrats Dick Oliver and Bill Vandenburgh and Republican George Oakes have spent the most money to date on their campaigns for the 15th Assembly District race, according to the first campaign disclosure statement.,

That statement was due Jan. 9 and spokesmen from both the Alameda County Registrar of Voters' office and the Secretary of State's office agree there may have been some confusion about the date since not all of the candidates filed by the deadline. Democrats Josh Jelincic and Rudy Triviso and Lonnie Moore of the American Independent Party have yet to file statements.

The Jan. 9 deadline was set up specifically for the 15th Assembly District special election and came under the provisions of the Waxman-Dymally bill and not Proposition 9. The next three disclosure deadlines (which cover both the special and the run-off elections) will be held under the auspices of Proposition 9. Those dates are Jan. 28, Feb. 25 and May 8.

According to the first statement, which covers all receipts and expenditures prior to Jan. 6. the Committee to Elect Dick Oliver led the list with receipts of $7,957 and expenditures of $9,873.

The Vandenburgh for Assembly Committee reported revenues of $7,180.70 and expenditures of $7,544.89 while the Oakes for Assembly Committee listed $6,000 in funds raised and $5,418 spent. Oakes reported a personal expenditure of $211.19.

Democrat Joyce LeClaire and the LeClaire for Assembly Committee, reported $5,050 has been raised for her campaign and $895 has been spent.

Democrat Floyd Mori's campaign committee reported receipts of $1,962.90 and expenditures of $1,553.15 while the Guy Puccio for Assemblyman Committee indicated it has raised $1,175 and spent $729. Puccio is a Republican.

Democrat Marc Elliot listed a personal expenditure of $47.42 while the Committee for Marc Elliot reported receipts of $1,110.23 and expenditures of $896.04. Democrat George Glavor indicated he has raised $1,400 and spent $1,177 while Democrat Arnold Thompson reported receipts of $1,059.03 and no expenditures.

Democrat Doug Morrisson and the Committee to Elect Douglas Morrisson reported revenues of $912.99 and expenses of $411.21 while Leo Howell, a Democrat, listed receipts of $602.43 and expenditures of $292.43. Democrat Tom Kendall indicated he has received $428 and spent $411.

Spokesmen for the county Registrar of Voters and the Secretary of State said they will send letters to the candidates who failed to file before they will begin assessing a penalty because of the confusion the transition to Proposition 9 may have caused.

'Foreign foods,' 'Decorating' still have enrollment openings

Two adult education evening classes taught by home economics teacher Carla Escola remain open for enrollment.

"Foreign Foods and Influence," taught on Mondays from 7 to 10 p.m. and "Interior Decorating," offered from 7 to 10 p.m. on Thursdays, are open to interested adults who may register for the courses at the Adult Education Office, 3044 East Ave., 447-6671.

There is a general registration fee of $4 per quarter, which entitles the student to take as many classes as wanted. The foods class costs an additional $6 to cover supplies. Both courses are taught at Livermore High School and will continue through March 21.

The foreign foods class will cover different countries but concentrate on the cuisine of France and China.. Different techniques of preparation as well as the foods' influence on the palate's of the United States will be explained.

The interior decorating class will be taught with a consumerism bent. Students will learn how to work with a decorator, explained Mrs Escola.

Burglary suspects clipped in Alamo

Lesher News Bureau

Sheriff's deputies have arrested three valley residents for investigation of burglary, after one of them was caught in a Danville barber shop.

Arrested were Marc Ryder Bugge, 18, of 544 Highland Drive, Danville, Robert Alan Jones, 20, of 78 Casa Grande Place, San Ramon, and a 16-year-old San Ramon girl.

Deputies said that Hutton's Barber Shop, 527 San Ramon Valley Blvd., Danville, showed signs of numerous attempts to enter various doors and windows Tuesday evening. Finally, the suspects found one window that was unlocked.

Sheriff's deputies were called after witnesses reported seeing a man climbing in through a back window.

Moments later, they arrived to capture the suspect as he climbed out the window, carrying a radio, a cup with some screws and a pair of nail clippers.

Jones and the girl were arrested in a parking lot nearby on Estates Drive, deputies said.

Course aids health care job seekers

HAYWARD — There are still job openings in one field, while competition for the few openings in other areas has become hair - raising.

That one field is health care. Trained technicians, while not particularly well paid in most cases, are at least being employed while unemployment lines are filled with those in other professions.

Chabot College is offering a new course in a health - related field: Hospital Pharmacy Technician.

Nineteen students are now enrolled in a program that covers three quarters (nine months) and leads to a Certificate of Achievement. The program involves formal classroom instruction along with 450 hours of vocational work experience in Bay Area hospital pharmacies.

Chabot is the first Northern California community college to institute such a program, which was organized after hospitals in the area indicated a need for hospital pharmacy technicians.

Dr. Robert Mirigian is coordinator of the new program. He describes the program as training students in drug distribution to outpatients and in - patients as well as in floor stock.

Technicians are also involved in all aspects of preparing, manufacturing and procurement of drug products, both sterile and non - sterile.

"The technician is trained to perform specific manipulative, repetitive tasks which are involved in the preparation and distribution of medications," he explained.

Employment prospects are excellent because of recent changes in hospital systems which increase the need for sub - professionals.

"The program is certainly a thing of the future," he said. "The State Board of Pharmacy is now studying the role of the technician while a legislative committee is considering the need for legislation concerning the technicians."

Mirigian teaches chemistry and pharmacology at Chabot and is also a hospital pharmacist.

The new program represents an integration of the arts and sciences with technical - vocational education, taught by a faculty with special education and training. An advisory board of hospital pharmacy service directors helped to organize the course.

Instructor in baton sought

PLEASANTON — The Recreation Department is looking for a qualified baton instructor 18 years of age or above to teach children four years and older, according to spokesmen for the city's recreation programs.

The baton class has several students who are intermediate and at the advanced level, the spokesman said. Potential teachers may telephone Ann Carroll at 846-3202, Ext. 215.

Back in the fold

Dr. Charles Lahr, a Livermore gynecologist, was commissioned a Captain in the Naval Reserve Mecial Corps earlier this month. Lahr rejoined the Navy after a 16 year hiatus and his first assignment will be in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Lahr rejoined the service to get away from the paperwork that plagued him in civilian practice. Lieutenant Leslie Roach of the San Francisco Navy Recruiting District administered the oath.

Pupil services plan

SRV school district takes 'giant step'

By JOHN KEARNS

It's interesting, but challenging, heading pupil services in the San Ramon Valley Unified School District.

Mike Halloran, coordinator of the department, has taken the reins of one of the most ambitious projects launched by a school district in the state.

San Ramon Valley Unified, long a leader in the establishment of programs designed to educate students in health and related matters, this year instituted a comprehensive student health, adult education and community services program under the general heading, "pupil services."

The district has "taken a giant step" in enacting the far - reaching program, says Halloran.

Halloran's position as coordinator of pupil services came naturally, he says, since he was formerly the health and drug program coordinator for the district.

Prior to that he was the dean of students at San Ramon High School in Danville, where most drug problems in the district were found.

While Halloran was dean, students reportedly sold drugs in the streets of Danville and used them on school grounds. Halloran's responsibilities, therefore, centered on curbing drug use.

The district also realized that students used drugs for a number of reasons, and that the underlying causes of drug use had to be probed.

Halloran was named health and drug program coordinator in order to establish a broader drug abatement program. He was also in charge of health education, an important means of alerting students to the dangers of drug use.

"We don't try to tell students about drugs," says Halloran, "they know more about drugs than we do. We tell them what drugs do to their bodies, including alcohol and tobacco."

By studying ways to improve health education in the schools, the district came to the realization that student attitudes and behavior are affected in many different ways.

The most important of all, however, is the influence parents have on their children when the child is between the ages of one and six.

"We tell parents," says Halloran, "that a decent job from the years one to six can't be undone by 12 years of bad teachers."

MIKE HALLORAN

Children, says Halloran, mimic their parents. If parents sit around the house drinking, there's a good chance that their children will use drugs.

If, on the other hand, parents are active in their communities, there's a good chance their children will be active in school.

Adult education programs at the San Ramon Valley Community Center (started through the efforts of Halloran and the school district teach parents to be more active as individuals.

"Even courses in macrame," says Halloran, "help parents to be more active, and that helps thefr children develop an interest in activities when they're in their formative years."

The center also conducts programs that educate parents in the areas of drug use and child - rearing.

The pupil services project's primary function is to provide students with information on health, but it also helps students articulate values they have developed in their home environments and it provides them with a place to put their knowledge to use.

The district also solicits adult volunteers to work in school programs and with students in an effort to affect students' home environments.

All of the programs, including the Discovery Center in Danville which is designed to handle emotional or adjustment problems of students and adults, are part of the district's pupil services department.

The department attempts to coordinate all services in the school and community so no duplication will occur. "We try to put the most blast in the buck," says Halloran.

The pupil services department has only been in existence this school year. Halloran foresees little chance for staff additions in the near future because of budget priorities weighing against it.

His speciality is in the fields of guidance and psychology

So far the job of organizing the department has been complex, but Halloran praises the school district for taking a leading step in the field of pupil, and community, services.

For Tuesday, Jan 21, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conduct your more serious business affairs before evening. After dark you're much too playful to be sharp commercially.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be modest about your accomplishments; let others mention them. Blow your own horn and you'll only get a shallow sound.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Keep your attention focused on your more ambitious interests. Luck will fill in some gaps that muscle can't.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be fortunate today in dealings with prestigious contacts, if you don't try to mix business with pleasure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Disassociate temporarily from allies whose aims don't jibe with yours. Success will come if you're singular about your goals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Large issues you'll handle in stride. Petty matters will call for some aspirin, especially if coworkers are involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll come off well today in transactions conducted along practical lines. Speculative ventures won't be so rewarding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It will be easier for you today to please outsiders than family members, no matter how hard you try.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are able now, if you apply yourself, to expand small advantages careerwise into something very worthwhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be selective in your choice of companions. Shun persons who you suspect may want something from you materially.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Regarding purchases you make for the home now, durability and quality should take precedent over price and fads.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be receiving good news. It will require time to be fully appreciated. Don't let negative thoughts make less of it than it is.

Your financial prospects will be brighter this year than last, but you'll still have to work for what you get. Build solidly upon each opportunity as it arises.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South glared at his partner and yelled, "Do you have to overbid all the time? Couldn't you double four spades and take a profit?"

Then he spread his hand and announced, "I have to go down one trick."

West who was keeping score, put down his hand and chalked up 100 points on his side of the ledger. North picked up the West hand, looked it over carefully, turned to his partner and said, "If you had the brains of any animal quieter than a braying jackass, you would have kept your mouth shut and wrapped up your contract."

North was right and the play to make five diamonds is not really complicated. In fact it is a sure thing provided West has eight spades and at least one trump.

South wins the first spade; draws trumps with two leads; cashes the top hearts and clubs and noted that West has followed to one heart and to both clubs. Now South leads a low club.

If West wins the trick he must play spades. After following once South gets to ruff in one hand and discard a heart from the other. If East wins he can cash a heart, but then must give South a ruff and spade discard.

CARD Sense

The bidding has been: 21

West	North	East	South
			1 ♣
1 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	?

You, South, hold:
♠ K 7 6 4 3 ♥ A 2 ♦ 9 ♣ A K 7 3 2

What do you do now?

A — Bid four spades. This bid may cost you but it is more likely to pay big dividends.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of jumping to four hearts East has just bid two hearts. What do you do in this instance?

LEGAL NOTICE

MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT
ELECTION NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the voters of the Murray School District of Alameda County, State of California, that in accordance with the provisions of the Education Code of the State of California governing such elections, an election will be held on Tuesday, March 4, 1975, in said district, at which time there will be submitted to the voters of said district the following measure:

MEASURE

Shall there be authorized an increase in the revenue limit per unit of average daily attendance in the amount of One Hundred Fifty Dollars ($150), such increase to be effective in the Murray School District for an unspecified period of time commencing with the school year 1975-1976, the revenues of which are to be used for the maintenance and operation of the kindergarten and elementary schools?

This increase would constitute an increase for the school year 1975-1976 from approximately Nine Hundred Forty and 52/100 Dollars ($940.52) to approximately One Thousand Ninety and 52/100 Dollars ($1,090.52) per unit of average daily attendance.

The proposed increase of the revenue limit of $150 per unit of average daily attendance will authorize an increase in the estimated maximum general purpose tax rate of the district for the first year 1975-1976 from approximately $2.74 to approximately $3.69 for each One Hundred Dollars ($100) of assessed valuation of property.

By order of the County Superintendent of Schools of Alameda County, at the request of the governing board of said district, said revenue limit increase election has been consolidated with the governing board member election to be held in the district on March 4, 1975.

Computer to analyze local opinion

Lesher News Bureau

BERKELEY — Suburbanites' brains may be picked by the Association of Bay Area Governments, using a computer.

ABAG and the Lawrence Hall of Science at the University of California at Berkeley want to find out what people think about various regional planning issues by having them play games with computer terminals placed at various locations in the Bay Area.

The ABAG executive committee Thursday night authorized the regional agency and UC to apply for federal Health Education and Welfare funds to finance the project.

People will play mind - exercising games such as "hangman" with the computer and from those games be able to tell how a person might feel about a particular regional planning matter.

The computer also will spit out a "demographic profile" of the people playing the games.

PH care home plea slated tonight

An application for a residential care home at 1612 N. Marta Drive in Pleasant Hill will be heard by the city planning commission today.

The commission meets at city hall, 3300 N. Main St., 8 p.m.

Eugene and Carol Filler propose to have the home for six people.

The commission approved the same use for seven residents for another applicant last March, but both the applicant and those opposed to the use appealed to the city council.

The applicant wanted the council to approve the home for nine residents. The council would not because its ordinance allows a maximum of seven people.

Park dispute may surface

OAKLAND — There might be further reference to recent management - board disputes when the East Bay Regional Parks District board meets Tuesday.

The meeting will be at 2 p.m. in the Bay Area Regional Parks headquarters at 800 Madison St., Oakland.

Officials pump for water money

Lesher News Bureau

SACRAMENTO — California officials want more federal capital outlay funds to build several water projects, including Auburn Dam, to relieve unemployment and expand food production in the state.

The request by the California Water Commission asks for a $239 million budget for the Army Corps of Engineers and the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation for the upcoming 1975-76 fiscal year.

The Auburn Dam project on the middle fork of the American River is proposed to be built for flood control, power production, recreation and sale of water.

However, it is one of several water projects that has faced challenges from environmentalists.

The Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) challenged the project as unnecessary because existing water supply contracts can be met with certain modifications of the dam construction plans.

Gerald Meral, staff scientist for EDF, says that if the East Bay Municipal Utilities District (EBMUD) taps into the system from the mouth of the American River, both water supply and flow requirements can be met.

Meral adds that if the project goes on as planned, the Contra Costa County area would be affected by the diversion of up to 1 million acre feet of water from the Sacramento - San Joaquin Delta.

He says that 600,000 acre feet of water coming from the Folsom - South Canal now flows into the Delta.

If the Auburn Dam is completed, however, another 400,000 acre feet of water could be diverted from the Sacramento River above Stockton which otherwise would go into the Delta.

On sports

Home field disadvantage

Mike Zampa

While the current economic blight grinds on, funds for recreational purposes are likely to dry up.

The government groups doling out cash for playgrounds are being battered along with everybody else.

While we find it more difficult to afford Fords and Chryslers, they fret over the price of volleyballs and basketballs. And nobody even thinks of erecting gyms and ball fields.

Sorely needed facilities, like Dublin's proposed 22-acre sports complex, are either scrapped or trimmed back in the planning stages.

Recreation directors are learning they too must cinch up the budget belts.

The challenge is to make do with present facilities, while the number of participants swells.

No one in the recreation field is more aware of the juggling act required than the folks in this region. Overlapping seasons, the infusion of girls sports, and the vagaries of weather make field scheduling a nightmare.

Every sports group claims squatters' rights to its own playfield. Few things, short of armed intervention, will convince the organizations to share.

The rec people are caught in the middle, warding off civil wars among folks who say, "we pay taxes for the park, so we'll use it."

That argument packs a punch.

In Pleasanton, it has spawned a recreation policy that nearly bars immigrant athletes. Any team using a city play facility must be comprised of at least 75 per cent Pleasanton athletes.

For the most part the ruling causes little hardship. All of the neighboring towns have recreational sports leagues similar to Pleasanton's. There is no need for outsiders to register anywhere else.

The one blaring problem however concerns the Tri-Valley Soccer Club.

With only three Pleasanton players on its 18-man roster, the semi-pro team is in danger of losing its home. All matches, save for an occassional exhibition, are played at Pleasanton Aquatic center.

That may be the most heavily trodden stretch of soccer real estate in the East Bay. Because of that, the rec department wants to insure that Pleasanton tax payers are utilizing it.

Tri-Valley's problem is singular. It plays in a league stretching across the East Bay. There are no limits on where the opposition can search for players. To keep up, Tri-Valley must shop outside of town for bodies.

Soccer players who live as far away as San Francisco have played for Tri-Valley in the past.

Narrowing the field down to one town could ruin the team. So the only alternative is a move. Already the club is considering Livermore as a new home. But there is a snag in finding lighted practice facilities.

And the club's Tri-Valley image would suffer with games at Robertson Park, tucked in a corner of the three valleys.

Pleasanton recreation director Bob Caparusso offered one possible compromise, spreading Tri-Valley home games among Pleasanton Livermore and Dublin. Perhaps city officials would relent to a handful of matches involving "foreigners," Caparruso said. He couldn't promise anything though.

Even that has drawbacks however. Only Pleasanton is a central site for drawing fans from the corners of the region. Once out of town, the only other field is Robertson Park, or a bunch of school playgrounds. Few would be suited to East Bay Soccer League play.

The club's desire is to remain in Pleasanton. It has indicated it will search for a way to circumvent the 75 per cent rule.

But Caparusso warns that the policy may be iron-clad. Even his three-city format might not stack up against it.

The directive could leave Tri-Valley homeless, an orphan turned out by a region considered the cradle of civilization in Bay Area soccer.

It would be an unfair cut because Tri-Valley has tried to pay back the neighborhood for use of the field. First it brought in top flight competition. Not just EBSL opponents, but some of San Francisco's best clubs, including the tradition steeped Scotts. Milan Mandaric brought his semi-pro team, a forerunner of the San Jose Earthquakes to town for a big exhibition last year.

Tri-Valley has also been a booster for kids' soccer. Youth teams were invited to play preliminaries to the big exhibitions. Afterwards they were introduced to the grownup players.

Now, when some of the best products of the youth ranks are emerging from college, Tri-Valley is striving to sign them. The local posture can only help cement community relations. But team officials are chagrinned to think they'll be turned out just as the recruiting program flowers.

According to Tri-Valley publicist Jack O'Connor, the high caliber of play in the EBSL is reason enough to perpetuate his team in Pleasanton.

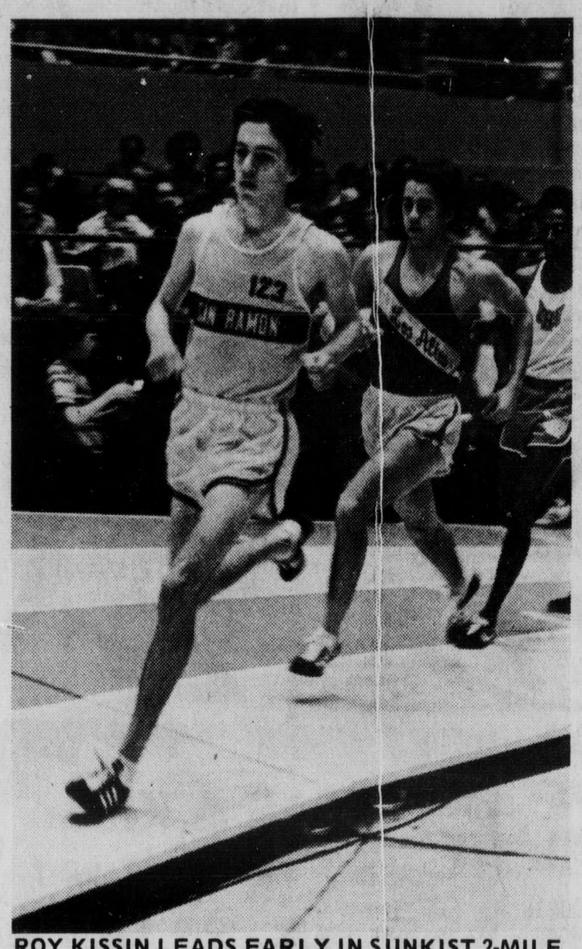
"We're playing a North American Soccer League brand of ball," he says. "Of course we can't sustain it for 90 minutes or we'd be in the NASL. But we get a lot of three and four man plays down the field just like them."

If his assessment is a little pumped up, the team still represents the highest caliber of soccer in a soccer-mad vicinity.

Ironically, it possesses a beguiling community orientation in the face of a community crisis. Though the players hail from far flung Bay Area locations, they make a tradition of post game pizza-spaghetti-beer feeds with the local players and fans. It gives the game a palatable, homey feel.

Even if 75 per cent of the revellers don't share the same home.

Kissin squeezes at Sunkist



ROY KISSIN LEADS EARLY IN SUNKIST 2-MILE
Mitch Kingery and Ajim Baksh follow SRHS senior

By TED BROCK

LOS ANGELES — After trading positions with a tactically minded field for 20 of 22 laps, Roy Kissin narrowly outkicked Hollywood's Ajim Baksh to win the high school two - mile run at the Sunkist Invitational indoor track meet Saturday night.

The San Ramon senior lunged at the finish to edge Baksh, who had held the lead since the 1¾ - mile mark. Both were timed in 9:09.6.

"I started to lean about five yards from the tape. I wasn't sure whether I was going to get him there," Kissin said afterwards.

Mitch Kingery of San Carlos was a challenger with a quarter - mile to go, but faded to a 9:14.8 third-place finish.

The race was the finale of a 35 - event schedule which had included world indoor records by Francie Larrieu (2:40.2 in the women's 1000 meters) and Dan Ripley (18-1 in the pole vault).

By the time the prep two-milers began, less than half the crowd of 13,003 remained in the L.A. Sports Arena, most of them fixing their attention on high jumper Dwight Stones' ascent to a 7-5¼ world mark.

But once under way, the high schoolers attracted a following. Kissin led the first two laps, yielding to Loyola's Guy McRoskey as the runners passed the quarter mile mark in 66.9.

Baksh picked his way to the front of the pack and stayed there for the second half - mile, taking the others past the halfway point in 4:36.2.

Kissin dropped briefly to fourth when Kingery moved into the lead at the outset of the second mile. He regained the third spot a quarter mile later, then overtook Baksh and was chipping at Kingery's five - yard advantage with a little more than a half - mile to go.

Baksh was still very much alive, however, as he traded positions with Kingery with three laps (just over a quarter mile) remaining.

Kissin, who said later that he was "just trying to stay up" at this point, was content with his position and made no commitment.

Kingery was dropping back now, leaving Kissin and Baksh to drive to the wire.

Despite the victory, Roy's immediate reaction was that he had used "poor tactics."

"I stayed inside too much of the time, and my left foot kept catching the curb of the track," he said.

It was only the third time on the boards for Kissin, who had been disappointed with San Francisco Examiner Games appearances in 1973 and 1974.

"I'm happy with my time tonight — considering we went out so slow," he remarked. "The air in here is pretty smoky, and it gave me some breathing problems. My throat hurts a little now."

Saturday's competition was diluted somewhat by the withdrawal of Eric Hulst of Laguna Beach due to a case of the flu. "It's too bad Hulst couldn't run," Kissin said afterwards.

The Sports Arena's sparkling new orange and yellow track, emblazoned with the Sunkist logo at the top of both turns, received as much advance billing as any of the world class athletes in attendance. The new oval was built by Pro-West and is considered an improvement on the company's swift indoor tracks at San Diego and Salt Lake City due to a sharpening of the uphill grades, and lengthening of the downhills by 22 feet.

"I didn't get into the banked turns until the fifth or sixth lap," Roy commented. "Once you start learning not to fight them, the corners work pretty well for you."

Kissin will have a chance to test the Sports Arena's recently recycled "old" track — and another high quality field of prep two milers — in this Friday's Examiner Games at the Cow Palace.

Suns burn Knicks in under-8 cage

The Suns held their opponents scoreless through the second and third quarters.

Robbie Allen, Bill Callender and John Hudson all scored four points for the winners.

The Lakers led the Bucks, 18-10 after three quarters, then held on for an 18-16 victory. Danny Bynum paced the losers' comeback with 12 points. For the Lakers, Mat Thompson and Danny Hatton each scored four points.

The 76ers ripped the Sonics, 36-8, with Aaron Bodnar dominating the backboards. He had 15 rebounds. Rob Maser and Phil Hampton each scored eight for the winners. Bodnar, Tom Antonopoulos and Scott Anderson had six. Tom Rollins and Steve McDonald each scored for the losers.

The Capitols checked the Blazers on two points through three periods, and breezed to an 18-6 win. Dennis Mitchell, Steve Bustamente and Russell Herrocks each scored four points for the winners. The Blazers' Jeff Cunningham also had four.

The Colonials limited the Pacers' to Ron Washburn's four third-quarter points en route to a 38-4 rout. Todd Vitale scored eight points for the winners. Aaron Harmon, Robbie Dowell and Rich Johnson all had six.

Kurt Huska's 12 points vaulted the Nets past the Tams, 34-15. Mike Diamond and Mark Zika each scored six points. Mike O'Brien and Jim McKeown were defensive stars. Mike Okelberry scored five points for the Tams.

The Cougars raced out to a 10-0 lead after one quarter, and bounced the Conquistadors, 36-19. Jack Stevens and Jim Grant scored 12 each for the winners, and Scott Tatman scored 10. He was the rebound leader. The Q's Larry Reshes had six points.

The Spirits dimmed the Stars, 39-18, thanks to Eric Hansen's 13 points, and six each by Toby MacFarlane and Mike Antonopoulos. Daniel Gray and Roger Riggs were the key defensive people. David Snyder and Mollo Ford each had six points for the Stars.

The Spurs outlasted the Squires, 38-20, with Mike Majors canning 12 points. Jorge Garratt had eight points, and Greg Hogan and Scott Jeffery, six each. David Smith and John Collins of the Squires both scored six.

The Bruins survived a second half comeback attempt by the Dons for a 34-30 decision. Jay McAllister led the winners with 14 points, and Lane Boesplug added 10. For the losers, John Danskin had 14 points, and Chris Zika, 12.

The Trojans were outscored, 13-2 in the final quarter, but squeaked by the Cardinals, 36-35. Jim Christensen scored 10 points for the Trojans, and Joey Raposa, eight. Doug Doherty and Mark Fleshman paced the Cards with 10 apiece.

The Spartans jumped off to an 18-0 lead through one quarter, and belted the Bears, 41-21.

Purple jumps in poll

Amador Valley High School moved up a notch to second place in this week's East Bay Prep Cage Poll, following its 56-46 win over Monte Vista Friday night.

The Dons received 111 points in voting by the East Bay Prep Writers Association, to 120 for first place Oakland High.

Amador deposed Oakland Tech for the second place rating. Tech dropped to fourth, while Bishop O'Dowd advanced to third.

The Dons defeated Bishop O'Dowd earlier this year, and lost to Tech.

Amador, undefeated in the EBAL, will return to action Friday night at home with Granada. The Matadors received honorable mention for the East Bay's top 15, as did Livermore and Monte Vista.

The EBAL takes a night off from basketball this evening, because of school finals.

Pope wins the Flecto Sports Award from the sponsoring Flecto Co. of Oakland.

The Cowboy wrestler is 23-1 for the year, and wrapped up his third tournament championship of the season at Las Lomas. He topped previously undefeated Carl Tuessig of El Cerrito, 9-0 in the finals.

Warriors stumble, rally to top Sacto

By DAVE WEBER

Seemingly panic-stricken for the first time all season, the Tri-Valley Warriors blew a 10-point halftime lead, staggering through the third quarter before regaining enough composure to inch past the visiting Sacramento Prospectors, 125-122, Sunday night at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

"Don't ask me what happened," said puzzled Warrior coach John Phillips in the aftermath of the painstaking win.

Although unwilling to make a definitive statement, Phillips had his ideas on what the problem might be.

" We've had some internal problems. The players feel that we're being picked on as a team by the referees and it's getting them down," he said. "For example, last week I was thrown out of a game for asking a ref if he would 'even up' a bad call."

During the same contest, the Warriors were denied a substitute for Johnny Burks when the 6-7 forward fouled out with four seconds to go. Since Tri-Valley lost by just two, the fact that the Warriors were forced to go with just four players definitely had its effect.

An enraged Burks booted the officials traveling bag from his hand after the game when the befuddled zebra refused to listen to Johnny's complaints. Conduct like this can only add to the officials dislike of Tri - Valley, however Phillips believes that the refs are at least equally to blame.

" They make 40 dollars a game — plus expenses — which is more than most players' yet they only work the games in their own areas. As long as they get expenses, they should have to travel too," he explained.

Many of the troubles caused by the referees stem from lack of knowledge of the pro rules. Since the officials are generally veteran high school - college refs, confusion is often king.

Sunday, Paul Wilson, one of the more passable officials in the WBA, spent at least as much time straightening out disputes between his partner and the players as he did controlling the actual play.

Compounding the players' discouragement, the attendance at Warrior home games hasn't exactly necessitated the hiring of special security patrols to handle the crowds.

By actual count, 79 persons — other than players, press and Warrior personnel — attended Sunday's game, Perhaps half of whom paid to get in.

" It's tough for the players to get up for a game when the stands are empty," said Phillips," especially when San Jose and Stockton play to packed houses.

" I don't think the fans in the Valley give us credit for being professional, but maybe this will change if we win a championship."

It was suggested that perhaps Tri-Valley fans expected too much of former ABA star Willie Wise; and when he failed to score 60 points a game the fans became disinterested.

" I don't think the fans give Willie enough credit," complained Phillps, " If Rick Barry or Bob McAdoo came down here, they wouldn't score that many either."

Wise was ill during Sunday's contest, throwing up at halftime according to Phillips, yet still played most of the game and scored 17 points, tied for second high for the Warriors behind Burks' 33.

Burks paved the way for Tri-Valley in the early going as his 12 first quarter points gave the hosts a 35-22 lead by the end of one period. The Warriors had built up a 25-8 lead at one point but six points each in the final four minutes by Mike LaRoche and Ike Fontaine brought the Pros back.

The second quarter was played nearly even as the teams went into the locker room with Tri-Valley on top 68-58.

But Sacramento exploded for 40 points in the third quarter and as the Warriors began to look bewildered, took the lead with 2:28 to go in the period on a pair of free throws by Larry Webber.

The visitors then steadily built up a lead until it stood at 13 with 5:49 to play in the game.

However, a pair of local players went to work on the Pros, sparking the traditional story-book comeback.

In the span of the next 2:18 seconds the Warriors outscored Sacto 17-5 as Don Griffin, one of Stanford's alltime scoring leaders, put in seven points and fed off for three assists while Dwayne Read, from Portland State by way of Diablo Valley College, drove for six points on three consecutive layups.

Marc Jamieson's 18 foot jumper with 1:43 to go gave TriValley the lead for good, 121-120 as four free throws by the fluid Burks, brought the score to its final count.

The Warriors were again hampered as Paul Loveday, just coming off a long absence due to a groin injury, missed the contest with a case of the flu.

Dublin sides sweep in Caffodio

Dublin made a clean sweep of its opening day contests in Al Caffodio Spring Soccer Saturday, winning three matches.

The under-12 Paddy's blanked the Newark Chargers, 2-0, on goals by Andy Lezcano and Robbie Allen. David Worthington and Gary Golisch had assists.

Dan Bynum recorded five saves, while Andy Salmeron and Jim Hitcher provided top-notch defense.

The Colts won an under-14 contest with the Pleasanton Vikings, 2-0. Kevin Dicks scored both goals for the winners. Good defense by Mark Maple, Mark Jennings, Robert Whitmer, Ed Bryant, John Citi and Finley Boag was the difference in the game.

Pleasanton

The Ballistic Vulcans rocked the Mustang Roans, 6-0, on three John Beaulieu goals. Greg Strommer, Mel Grisel and Mitch Haroldson also scored Mark Andrews, Chris Pearson, Brian Jacobson and Saul Flores were defensive standouts. Tod Lawsen, Ron Lambert and Mike Lemm all played well.

Livermore

Ken Taylor scored one goal and assisted two others as the Independent Sharks trimmed the Atomic Dynamos, 4-3. Rich Pieczynski, Greg Ogle and Marc Williams all scored for the Sharks. Troy Larsen had 12 saves. Doug Hiles and Alex Abey were top defenders. Curt Gabriel and John Menan were also instrumental for the Sharks. Robby Day, Kirk Marshall and Micky Mueller scored for the Dynamos. Ron Mueller had 10 saves.

Bob Hunter's two goals, plus one by Joe Moyle propelled the Atomic Pions past the St. Michael's Ravens, 3-2. John Korthius had one assist. Paul Windergren and Ricky Berg teammed in goal for 10 saves. Doug Eisenbais and Jack Cleary anchored the backfield.

Cheese Factory, 2-0, whips St. Augustine

Brian May paced the winners with 16 points, including six of six from the foul line. Dan Lufkin and Mike Fullmer scored 13 apiece, and Dick Smith, 11.

Bill Barrett and Ron Fey each scored 11 points for the losers.

Northland Stores thumped Mac's Pak, 52-43, thanks to 19 points by Randy MaCur. Teammate Don Underwood scored 14, and Rick Moitoza was the rebound leader. For Mac's, Jim Kabrich scored 12.

Osborne Realty's good defense, plus a huge front line that averaged 6-6, crushed Norm's Barber Shop, 57-28. WE WANT TO SELL CARS. YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY.
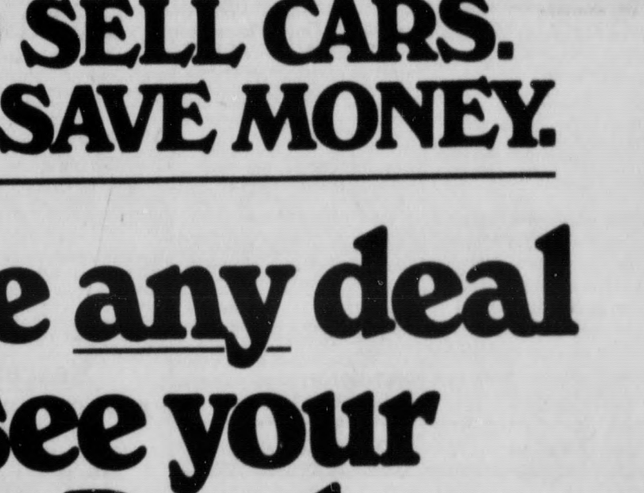
Don't make any deal till you see your Chevrolet Dealer.
No matter what kind of price or sales talk you've been hearing, see your Chevrolet dealer before you buy.
☐ He's anxious to give you his best possible deal. And according to Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices, he can begin by offering you the lowest priced car in many model categories, including America's lowest priced wagon (Vega), America's lowest priced mid-size car (Chevelle Malibu Sedan Six), and America's lowest priced full-size car (Bel Air Sedan).
☐ He can also offer a high trade-in on many used cars, so the actual cost of your new Chevrolet might be much lower than you'd expect.
He deals in America's favorite car—Chevrolet—which means you can get traditionally high resale value in a car you'll really like to own. And he has a wide range of models in stock and ready to go, right now, including compact Chevy Novas and economy-plus Chevy Vegas.

NOVA. A proved value in compact cars.
Pick the base Nova, Nova Custom, or luxurious new Nova LN. Whichever you decide on, you get a reliable, roomy, solidly built, easy-to-drive, easy-to-park compact car. There are two standard Nova engines: an economical six-cylinder or 4.3-litre V8. And the '75 Nova is engineered to cost about $300 less in scheduled maintenance than the '74 (in 50,000 miles of driving).


VEGA. Best overall EPA gas mileage of any 4-cylinder American-built car.
Vega gives you economy plus a lot of choices. The Vega Hatchback. America's most popular hatchback, is already priced below its nearest competitor. Other Vega models include America's lowest priced wagon, the Vega Notchback, the Notchback LX and the Vega Estate Wagon. And the '75 Vega is engineered to cost about $240 less in scheduled maintenance than the '74 (in 50,000 miles of driving).
Now that makes sense
CHEVROLET MAKES SENSE FOR AMERICA.

Immunization against measles urged

County Health Agency officials fear measles outbreaks will occur in Alameda County in early 1975 unless more children are immunized.

Dr. Morton Nelson, County Health Officer, said today two measles outbreaks in the northern part of California in October and November have increased his concern for the county's Pre-schoolers, those most vulnerable to complications.

"Although measles is a year-round disease, it begins to increase in January and picks up additional numbers each month until it peaks in May.

He recommends that all children from the ages of one to fifteen years who have not previously had measles be immunized as soon as possible to protect them from the possibility of a seasonal outbreak here.

The two recent outbreaks involved primarily pre-school and junior high school children in Eureka and Redding. Preliminary data indicate immunity levels in those areas are comparable to those in the rest of the state.

"That's why we think it could happen here" Dr. Nelson said.

"Parents often aren't concerned about measles because they consider them to be a harmless part of growing up, but no childhood disease is harmless. Until an effective vaccine was developed, hundreds of children died each year from measles or its complications, which may include pneumonia, deafness, brain damage and other serious disorders.",

Immunizations will be available at St. Barthomelew's Church in Livermore Feb. 11 from 9-11 a.m. and every Thursday at Valley Health Care Center at 3730 Hopyard Rd. from 3-5 p.m.

Pound set for national rec panel

LIVERMORE — Marlin Pound, one of the five directors of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District, has been appointed to a national recreation and parks association.

Pound is now a director on the Commissioners - Board Members Branch of the National Recreation and Park Association.

As a director, the Sandia Lab scientist will be working with professionals in parks and recreation to determine the leisure needs of people throughout the country and to mobilize citizen effort to fulfill those needs.

C-BM, the laymen's branch of the NRPS, has 3,308 members on 500 local park and recreation agencies. Each state C-BM organization names one member to the board of directors.

Pound, a member of the LARPD board since 1967, has been on the board of the California Association of Park and Recreation Commissioners and Board Members since 1972. He has served as treasurer of the statewide group.
